

Privacy Policy

We are pleased to post this policy so that users understand how we utilize information they provide us. For other important information concerning your use of our site, please refer to our Legal Terms and Conditions. We respect the privacy of those who use its site. Users should understand, however, that by the very nature of the medium, their communications with us, such as postings to the site or e-mail, reveal their e-mail addresses and other potentially identifying information.

In our public access areas, we collect personally-identifying information when you choose to be added to our email list:

- Your Name, and
- Your Email Address.

If you prefer that we not capture the information described, please do not provide the information to us.

In addition, our Web server automatically logs certain information (not all personally-identifying) every time you request a link, which may include the following:

- Date,
- Time,
- Client IP Address,
- User Name (If applicable),
- Service Name,
- Server Name,
- Server IP Address,
- Server Port,
- Method (GET, POST, and etc.),
- URI Stem,
- URI Query,
- Protocol Status,
- Win32 Status,
- Bytes Sent,
- Bytes Received,
- Time Taken,
- Protocol Version,
- Host (visitor's service provider),
- User Agent (your Web browser, name, platform, and version), and
- Referrer (the last place you visited that lead directly to our site).

Children

Our Website is not intended for use by children under the age of 13. We do not collect information about such children. If you are a child under 13, please do not send us any information about yourself. We encourage all parents and guardians to monitor their children's use of the Web.

Changes in our Privacy Policy

We reserve the right to change the terms of our Privacy Policy at any time in our sole discretion.

Questions or Concerns about our Privacy Policy

If you have any questions or concerns respecting our Privacy Policy, please contact Paul Mahon at paul@mplaw.com.